The guests included Mesdames Wood, Garnette Brown, Elizabeth Blitch, Lena Bell Brannen, Lila Blitch, Marjorie Lester, Annie Brooks Grimes, Louise Foy, Sylvia Williams, Arden Zetterover, Henrietta Harbush, Evelyn Wood and Mildred Donaldson; Messrs. FARMERS ARE URGED TO PURCHASE FARMS

AS TENANTS THEY ARE IN LOSING GAME—NEW GOSPEL NOW BEING PREACHED.

Atlanta, Ga., June 6.—If you are a farmer, you have a great work to do, a magnificent reform to achieve, a new gospel to embrace, to adopt, to honor, to crown, to glorify.

The job ahead of the farmer is the business of making the Georgia farm keep pace with Georgia progress, says Mr. Brown, and the farmer can do it. He can do it, as Mr. Brown shows, because he is worthy of the soil on which he works.

That soil, declares Mr. Brown, has to its credit a new and peculiar catalogue of wonders. The crops that have come out of it have put the Empire State of the South in the forefront of the Union.

"In quality and quantity, in the ease with which they are produced and the prices for which they are sold, they are the stuff to gladden any farmer's heart," proclaims Mr. Brown. "In the matter of agricultural wealth, Georgia has marked up records that give the South a new meaning in the minds of outsiders."

To succeed as a farmer in this state, where the average man is the tiller of a limited number of acres, Mr. Brown says the farmer has got to get out of the tenant class and into the land-owning fraternity. The farmer has got to back up all his industrial skills with what agricultural science, books, experiments and demonstrations can teach him; and he and his neighbors have got to buy and use labor-saving machinery in common, taking turns in using what the individual can not afford alone to purchase; he has got to buy his supplies, sell his produce and finance his work co-operatively and he has got to look for and find markets, cash markets, in nearby or convenient towns. The Brown points out, will render valuable assistance in finding markets and in aiding the farmer to dispose of his products. This bureau, it is further stated, was created for the sole purpose of aiding and co-operating with Georgia farmers in all market activities. Experts, always on the job,

Buy land, as the commissioner advises, and he at once sets his face toward success. Land ownership breeds abilities and virtues to which tenantry is poison. Own land, the commissioner says, and a man, as a farmer, will hold the pace of Georgia's spectacular onward rush.

The following statement from M. B. Dixon, the husband of one and the father of the other of the two women slain by Padrick, was written by J. S. Konrad and has been published in the daily papers of the state:

"Elliott Padrick is as sane as any man in Bulloch county. He has more sense than any two average men in the county, but it happens to be the brains of a very daffy fellow."

This was the emphatic statement of M. B. Dixon, husband of Mrs. Dixon and father of Mrs. Padrick, both of whom Padrick killed Monday afternoon, when your reporter talked with him this morning.

I probably was blind in my courtship, however, because I never dreamed that they were planning marriage until my wife informed me sometime later."

PADRICK LODGED IN BULLOCH JAIL

HUSBAND AND FATHER OF THE WOMEN HE MURDERED MAKES STATEMENT.

(Augusta Chronicle, June 24.)
Elliott Padrick, 21-year-old preacher, charged with the murder of his wife and mother-in-law, was last night removed from the Richmond county jail to the Bulloch county jail at Statesboro, Ga. Sheriff B. T. Mallard, of Bulloch county, left here at 9 o'clock by automobile with the prisoner. The sheriff was accompanied by a deputy.

Padrick was brought to the jail here early Tuesday morning following his surrender to officers Monday afternoon near the scene of the killing at Dover, Ga. He was lodged here for safekeeping.

Sheriff Mallard arrived in Augusta during the afternoon yesterday and presented papers at the jail authorizing Padrick's transfer. He was due to arrive in Statesboro with the prisoner at midnight barring accidents.

Padrick kept silent yesterday and refused to talk to newspaper men who sought interviews with him. This attitude on the part of the accused man follows instructions issued by his attorneys that he have nothing to say for publication. Heretofore he has talked freely, telling in a most explanatory manner of the details that led up to the double murder. He has had little to say about the actual deed, however.

Before leaving the jail last night, Padrick thanked Jailor Whittle for the treatment he had received during his confinement in the Richmond county jail.

The following statement from M. B. Dixon, the husband of one and the father of the other of the two women slain by Padrick, was written by J. S. Konrad and has been published in the daily papers of the state:

"Elliott Padrick is as sane as any man in Bulloch county. He has more sense than any two average men in the county, but it happens to be the brains of a very daffy fellow."

EDWARDS WILL NOT RUN FOR CONGRESS

FINDS HE CANNOT MAKE SACRIFICE RACE WOULD MEAN TO HIM.

(Morning News.)
Chas. C. Edwards, former congressman from the First district, who has been strongly urged by his friends to make the race this year for Congress, yesterday informed the Morning News that he had decided he could not make the sacrifice which such a campaign would entail.

He expressed his gratitude to the many who have offered him their support and requested him to run, but pointed out that he could not, except at a great sacrifice, run for the place, even should it be possible for him to get it without opposition. His statement follows:

"Many people have urged me to enter the race for congress and I have considered it as a matter of duty. I hope my friends will not be disappointed at my announcement. My friends are confident I could be elected, and perhaps I could; but my affairs are such that I can not run. I am heavily encumbered with mortgages, and I could get it without opposition. I am much devoted to the district and people who have honored me, and to my friends who seem anxious that I return to congress, and it is with a deep personal regret that I feel that I must announce that I can not and will not be a candidate. I will ever be mindful and grateful of those who have interested themselves in urging me to again serve them in Congress."

Congressman J. W. Overstreet, the incumbent, is now in Sylva, Ga., having been called home by the illness of his father. He announced in the Morning News some days ago that he would run for re-election.

OFFICERS START WAR ON AUTO VIOLATIONS

MAKE CASES AGAINST MINORS AND DRIVERS WITHOUT TAGS ON CARS.

An active campaign to enforce the state automobile laws in Bulloch county has been inaugurated by the county sheriff's office and county police.

The campaign extends from that phase of the law touching the driving of cars by minors, down the scale to the requirement of a license tag. While the sheriff's office has been engaged in issuing notices to delinquents that they must buy tags for their cars or cease to operate them, the county police have been serving warrants issued by the county solicitor's office against drivers of cars without license tags.

That there is a great deal of activity in automobile circles, both among the children and the grown-ups. Four young Statesboro boys so far had cases made against them for driving cars while under 16 years of age. At the solicitor's office it was stated yesterday that the campaign had only fairly begun in this respect.

The sheriff's office, upon information provided by interested persons, have issued notices to dozens of automobile owners throughout the county that they must procure licenses, which notices have been sent to the county clerk's office for filing. It is authorized to state that a representative from the office of the secretary of state, who was in Statesboro last week, announced his intention to return within a few days and proceed to issue warrants against every automobile owner who operated his car without a 1922 license tag as required by law.

YOUNG PADRICK'S FATHER REPAYS HIS FORGERIES

(Savannah Progress.)

Elliott Padrick, the young man who shot his wife and her mother to death at the Ogechee river bridge, near Dover last week, had a check cashed in Savannah on the same day the crime was committed. He had been secured very much attached to our oldest daughter, Willie Mae.

"I didn't like the idea at all, first, because of the girl's age, she being only sixteen at the time, and also because it was my desire to give her the benefit of a college education. In fact, we were planning even then to send her away to a school in Kentucky. I probably was blind in my courtship, however, because I never dreamed that they were planning marriage until my wife informed me sometime later."

"Both my wife and myself objected strongly, and told them positively that we would not consent until after the girl graduated. Apparently they agreed with our position and we bought clothes and trunks, etc., for her to go away to school. Padrick left us then to hold a meeting in Screven county. While there he wrote Willie Mae regularly, pleading with her to marry him. At Savannah he wrote me and asked me to come after him and while I was on my way there he came to our house, knowing I would not be at home and again pleaded with her to marry him. This continued until ultimately they were married, although I never willingly gave my consent. He was the most persistent pleader I ever knew. He was determined to have his way, everything he set his mind to and finally won over."

"As to our urging the marriage, or her mother ever beating the girl to force her to marry him, that is all rot, and like the balance of his statement, false from beginning to end.

"After their marriage they went to Macon, where he was conducting a meeting where they stayed a few days, returning to our home after the meeting. His next meeting was at Green's Cut, where, because Willie Mae asked to come home and see us, he beat her most inhumanly and left bruises on her body that she carried to her grave."

"Members of the church there, whom I had never seen, telephoned me to come and get my daughter as she was being mistreated, and one man told me that he would have killed her if he had treated her in such a manner. I went to Green's Cut in my car and brought her home. Later his meeting was closed by the members of the church there because of inflammatory utterances made from the pulpit by Padrick, concerning the other members of the neighborhood, statements that the members of his own congregation resented."

Mr. Dixon then related other such occurrences and told of how Padrick would beg the girl to come back to him, imploring her forgiveness for the way he had treated her. After a while he led up to the day of the double murder and of the girl and her mother going to the train to meet Padrick, following one of his letters begging her to see him again.

"They met him at Chlo and within a half hour had treated her in a manner with less consideration than I would have shown a snake. Two helpless, defenseless women, trapped in a closed car, and how he calmly told her he deliberately and cowardly shot them to death without giving them a chance for their life. As for the thinking he had money, his father told me of his financial condition when he first came to our house and I loaned him $10, later another ten. As to his marriage raising us socially in the community, I will leave that for the community to decide."

"When asked if it were true that Willie Mae had been going with any other men since she and Padrick had separated, Mr. Dixon stated positively that no one had been going with her; that she had been at home and seemed very happy all the time. "Some have accused me of lynching Padrick, and friends have mentioned it to me," he continued, "but I want to say here and now that all I desire for Padrick is justice. I don't favor lynch law, but I sincerely hope that neither his position as the ministry nor his father's name will shield him from the justice of the law."

MAY ASK FOR ONLY $40,000,000 IN BONDS

NEW MEASURE PROPOSED BY GLYNN COUNTY LEGISLATOR MEETS WITH FAVOR.

Atlanta, June 27.—A division of the state highway system into two primary classes, a primary or county road, and a secondary or district road, is being suggested by Representative B. F. Mann, of Glynn county, who is also president of the Macon-Brunswick Highway Association. One of the principal features of the Mann plan is a state bond issue of $40,000,000, which would be used before the legislature, which opens its session tomorrow.

"By a strict adherence to one highway through a county the mileage of the primary system would be about 3,400 miles," said Representative Mann, who is here for the second session of the session. "This would be completed before any connecting roads are constructed. More than half the county-to-county system could be built of well-graded and clay roads, to cost about $10,000 a mile, while portions where the traffic is heavy could be of macadam or concrete, constructed at about $20,000 a mile. Following this plan, after making due allowance for the roads already built with federal aid and what the state will get each year from the government, the primary system would be probably well constructed for about $40,000,000."

The proposition is to divert from the present public road at Robertson's switch just east of Brooklet and follow the railroad right of way from that point to one mile west of Stillson, where intersection will again be made with the present highway. The petition recites that the actual saving in distance would be seven-tenths of a mile, and that the greater advantage will be in having a better road-building foundation and a straight course. It is pointed out that the present highway between the points mentioned passes residence lots, and that the proposed road would serve more than twenty families. In the event of the final paving of the road, as proposed under the state bond proposition, it is contended that the saving on the shorter distance would be $18,530.87.

The railroad officials agree to co-operate with the movement to the extent of building the necessary culverts at the various water courses along its line, and thus obviate the necessity of long bridges or fills in the building of the road.

In opposition to this movement, however, another petition, more largely signed than the first, has been presented by persons who do not favor the new route. Practically the entire citizenship of the town of Brooklet is said to have signed this latter paper, and there is said to be brewing a strong fight in the event of any proposed abandonment of the present highway.

TYPHOID FEVER REPORTED TO BE ON INCREASE

The typhoid fever season has come, and many people in Georgia are still unprotected so far as being vaccinated is concerned. Time and again the state board of health and the county boards of health have sent out warnings and advised, even begged, the people to be vaccinated. Last year 798 people turned a deaf ear to such timely advice, crossed to the unknown.

Any one who wants typhoid vaccine this year had better order at once. The supply is by no means unlimited.

Order your vaccine from the state board of health today. Have your physician or health officer administer it at once.

COUNTY SUNDAY-SCHOOLS COMING TO STATESBORO

The Bulloch County Sunday-school Convention will be held July 5th, at the First Baptist church, Statesboro, and all Sunday-schools in the county are invited to send representatives to this convention. Workers from all schools will be welcomed whether they be of the schools or not. A splendid program has been prepared, which will make the day worth a great deal to all who are interested in building up attendance, interest and efficiency of their schools or classes.

Two representatives of the Georgia Sunday-school Association, Miss Mrs. Batchelder, of Atlanta, state children's division superintendent, and Mr. J. O. Webb, of Waverly, Ala., a brother of the state general superintendent, R. D. Webb, will attend this convention. Miss Batchelder is regarded as one of the leading specialists in the work with children and young people, having had experience in both Alabama and Georgia in this work. Mr. Webb is regarded as one of the best Sunday-school superintendents in Alabama, and his addresses will prove helpful to both superintendents and teachers.

The president of the county Sunday-school Association, Mr. Leroy Cowart, and the secretary, Mr. G. P. Donaldson, are expecting to make this the best convention yet held by the county association. They are hoping to have a one hundred per cent attendance at the county convention, and that will mean that every Sunday-school is represented by one or more persons.

WORK OF EQUALIZERS NEARING COMPLETION

DIGEST MAY SHOW SLIGHT DECREASE IN TAX VALUES AS COMPARED TO LAST YEAR.

The county tax equalizers are just now completing their work for the year, and will adjourn after today. For more than six weeks the board of equalizers have been engaged in their work, which they have performed with greatest care and deliberation, intent upon bringing the burden of taxation as nearly as possible equal upon the tax payers of the county.

Tax Receiver Atkins has already begun the writing up of his digest, and will have his first copy ready for the controller in about ten days. While the total figures for the county will not be known until the work has been completed and the totals added, the board members estimate that there will be a falling off in values of possibly half a million dollars from last year. This falling off is said to exist chiefly in personal property. The equalizers have made every effort to hold the valuations at such point that they will be recognized as fair in comparison with the returns from other counties of the state, thus avoiding the unpleasantness of a raise or contest by the state tax commission, which the county experienced two years ago when a twenty-five per cent increase was ordered.

Given as a mere guess, it is believed that the valuations for the year will be somewhat below $8,000,000.

SHERIFF MALLARD GOES TO BRING BACK FORGER

Sheriff B. T. Mallard left Saturday night for New Bloomington, Mo., with a warrant and requisition for the return of Chas. H. Brown, wanted here for forgery. Word was received yesterday that he was on his way home with the man, and he is expected back tomorrow.

The case against Brown is a rather unusual one and was based upon a transaction last year. He is understood to have been a telegraph operator at Moultrie. From that place he is said to have telegraphed money to his own order at this place, which he came here and received. He disappeared and the telegraph company began a search for him on a charge of forgery by telegraph. His arrest in the Missouri city was effected last week and Sheriff Mallard left for him Saturday night.

IMMENSE TRAFFIC HERE IN POULTRY PRODUCTS

The magnitude of business in poultry products which is done at Statesboro, is shown to be immense, according to figures obtained during the week by Secretary Pete Donaldson, of the Statesboro Advertising Club.

Figures reported from three of the largest dealers in chickens and eggs for business done since April 10th, total approximately $16,000. The largest of these firms, reporting the exact figures, bought and sold 14,237 chickens for $9,955.37. At times during this period the daily payments in cash exceeded $300. Two other firms reported estimates of over $300 per week, or a total of $5,000 each during the same period. There are many smaller dealers in poultry in Statesboro and vicinity, and the total volume of business in this line would easily approximate $20,000 during the past three months. Estimated conservatively, the total business in this line for the past year, would be far in excess of $50,000.

GOVERNOR HARDWICK'S MESSAGE TO ASSEMBLY

Summary of Address
Outlines Important
Recommendations.

Atlanta, June 29.—Governor Thomas
W. Hardwick's message to the 1922 session of the General Assembly, delivered in person at noon today is probably one of the most non-political documents of the kind ever presented to an assembly by a governor. In it there are no "issues." The paper deals wholly with statecraft in a very serious

GOV. THOMAS W. HARDWICK.

vein and may be properly divided under two distinct yet complete headings:
viz., the fiscal affairs of the state, their status; the insistent prayer for the creation of a practical business policy in handling the state's affairs.

The governor deals exhaustively with the question of taxation, using emphasis in the declaration that he never has been and is not now willing to tear down one place of necessary operating machinery until there has been created something to function in its place. It is on that basis he deals with the tax equalization law and the subject of a substitute in the form of a new system, of which he says: "I propose that the state shall abandon the field of property taxation on the ad valorem basis," and, as the substitute machinery which he offers, "in lieu of the property tax for state purposes and as a substitute for it, propose a graduated income tax law."

Financially he shows that the state faced, January 1, 1921, an actual deficit of $2,600,000 which would have been a deficit of $3,000,000 in December of that year but for measures adopted to prevent it. The state now owns an "unpaid balance" on 1921 appropriations $63,740, for which requisitions will be paid when they are properly drawn. In connection with the financial showing he draws attention to the provision by law that one-half of all the state's income, when it exceeds $5,000,000, shall be set aside for the public schools. To follow this requirement, he shows, would make it impossible, by one-third, for the state to pay the appropriation as made and for well defined reasons he gives, the recommendation is made that this clause be repealed.

The governor shows the total appropriations made for 1921 were $10,886, 884, and this total was cut down to $9,452,317 for 1922, being a reduction of $1,434,567.

The governor urges upon the legislature a close investigation of every board, bureau and commission and, under the stress of conditions, that it abolish every useless place, purge effective pay-roll of every useless official. He recommends the department of attaches and history be abolished; the reduction of the railroad commission from five to three members; the abolition of the special attorney for the state highway department, and, repealing his own and Governor Dorsey's recommendation, that the state be relieved of being board-ridden, commission-ridden and trustee-ridden.

The governor especially urges immediate establishment by the legislature
"a complete modern and up-to-date system in the operation of the state's fiscal affairs," referring directly to the need for an auditing system which, he points out, should pass upon and approve all items before they are paid, and in connection therewith he insists that the departmental and institutional heads be required to make up advance budgets and working plans for each year. The auditing system, he says, should be applied to the state's collection as well as to its purchases and payments, and that every cent collected for the state from any source or any agent be turned into the state treasury.

The governor urges the "enactment of a real and rigid Australian Ballot Law to be applicable to primary and general elections alike, and to be installed at every precinct in Georgia,"
and that this session of the General Assembly submit to the people a constitutional amendment providing for biennial sessions of the Assembly.

In scope, the greater part of his message is devoted to an explanation of the ills under the present system of taxation and the imperative need for reformation of that system, a system which has made it possible for appropriations to increase gradually until they exceed revenues, as he is with "securing a just and equal distribution of the present burdens of taxation," together with the practice of "rigid economy by drastic retrenchment, and in his proposed taxing system he provides for the collection of taxes quarterly instead of annually.

On this subject matter he presents
not only his own views, but such views as have been advanced to him and,
thereby, he "feels that I am only discharging my Constitutional duty to you and to the public." He charges the legislature, though, that, "if the present taxing system of Georgia is to be abolished, then it is your duty to provide an efficient and adequate substitute."

In Memory of Mrs. B. A. Davis.

On the 29th of December our hearts were previously stricken when the death angel visited that sweet home of the Davis family and took away their precious mother, Mrs.
B. A. Davis. She was born February 22nd, 1862, making her stay on earth fifty-nine years and eleven months. She was Miss Hery Ida Hendrix before her marriage to Mr. B.
A. Davis, in 1889. Her sweet disposition earned for her the love and admiration of all who knew her.
Words can never express the value of such a sweet life. The fondest affections of her will ever be cherished by her children and friends.
Though we sustain an irreparable loss in her going away, we rejoice that God in His love spared her to us so many years. As a mother she was all that the name implies, leaving to join her in glory seven daughters, Mrs. W. R. Anderson, Mrs. W.
R. Nevill, Mrs. C. A. Zetterower, Mrs.
E. A. Anderson, Mrs. Ethel Anderson,
Mrs. L. H. Hagun and Miss Myrtice
Davis, and three sons, John H. Cecil, Ward and Jesse Davis, all of whom were born and raised in Bulloch county.
Her husband, B. A. Davis, preceded her to glory years ago.

She has for many years been a consecrated Christian and united with Black Creek Primitive Baptist church a few years ago. Abiding in God's love and guided by His spirit her sweetest culture was that of spreading smiles and sunshine about those who came in contact with her.
I've spent many pleasant hours with her, and together we've so sweetly administered unto the sick many times and I feel that it was really good to have known her. We regret to give her up, but humbly submit to His will, and we ask His divine aid to prepare ourselves to meet her in our real home above where there will be no more tears, but joy shall reign forever.

The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Kennedy, who spoke in feeling terms about the influence of this good woman, sweet woman, which will be a living monument unto her.
We mourn the loss of her presence with us. Still we have the influence of her example. I extend to the family my tenderest sympathy and commend them for consolation to our heavenly Father whose grace is sufficient.

A true friend,
MRS. E. A. STRANGE.

It is Always Summer for a Buick Motor

The Buick motor is constant in power, in acceleration and smoothness because its carburetor automatic heat control functions equally well in summer or winter, under every motoring condition. All the heat required for the proper vaporization of present day low-grade fuels is supplied automatically as the throttle is opened and closed.

The carburetor automatic heat control is just one more of the exclusive features that make the Buick owner dissatisfied with anything but a Buick.

BEAUTIFUL SCENERY.

Did you ever take a week off from your regular duties and wear yourself out trying to find rest and enjoyment in viewing the strange and beautiful scenery of distant places and the association with strangers whom you had never met before and whom you would probably never see again?

Did you spend three days and part of as many nights tramping the thoroughfares of a strange city, chasing the elusive pleasure which one is supposed to find as hard as you and wonder as helplessly as you what it was all about; and did you imagine for awhile that it was fun and frolic, till gradually thoughts of home began to steal into your tired brain and hinder till you almost wished you had never tried to attempt it?

Did you at another day and night to the distance between you and home, and another day's drudgery upon the streets of the nation's capital—through public buildings and other places of note—while the feet seemed to grow smaller and smaller and the young June comes on your toes ripened swiftly into full maturity while you walked? And when the day was drawing to a close, and every step toward your rooming house was fraught with a muscle-strain which spread from foot-sole to head-rod, while you ruminated upon the fast-fading memories of the wonders you had seen through such expense of energy and cash, did the little rooming house around you seem to view, and your heart spring with new joy at the beauty of its nearness and the realization that there was rest for the weary? Did you then and there agree with the partners in your outing that there was nowhere to be found in a three-day's journey any scenery of nature or art that could compare with the modest rooming house which drew near with each laborious step?

And when the homeward trend was begun, and after twenty-seven hours of almost continuous riding you were dumped out at the little station of Cuyler, only thirty miles from home, and found the modest little waiting room with wide-open doors inviting you to come in and bide the coming of the mixed train which was to bear you home, did your mind forget the splendor and magnificence of the more gaudy railway stations you had seen in other cities, while you permitted yourself to feast upon the wild scenery about you and to reflect that it was an approach to your home again?

And when at last Bill B. DeLoach, the affable conductor of the S. & S., on a Sabbath morning dumped you out of his train at the improvised waiting room only a block from your own home, did you realize that there is nowhere in all the universe such incomparably beautiful scenery as that which abounds in the short distance along the shortest route to your home?

Isn't it a grand and glorious feeling, folks, to get back home!

EDWARDS NOT TO RUN.

Hon. Chas. G. Edwards has announced his decision not to be a candidate for Congress at the coming election. This decision is especially pleasing to the friends in Bulloch county who, in the event of his candidacy, would have been forced to choose between him and the local candidate, Hon. R. Lee Moore.

Mr. Edwards has been a strong following in Bulloch county, and has merited the friendship and confidence of the people through his fidelity to every interest of the county. It was through his activity that an appropriation was made for the building of the new school building, which his enemies scoffed at that he would never get it through till Statesboro reached the dimensions of a 5,000 city. While they scoffed, the bill passed Congress and the site was purchased. His bill providing for the erection of the building, which followed very shortly, was hooted at by the same wisecracks who pretended to know that the government's policy forbade the erection of buildings in towns of Statesboro.

The building has been completed more than two years and is a credit to this entire community. The people appreciate him as a man who does things which other men declare cannot be done.

Just what effect the retirement of Mr. Edwards as a probable candidate will have upon the Congressional race, is merely a matter of speculation. The friends of Mr. Moore feel hopeful that this shape of affairs will bring an advantage to him. They recognize that his chances in certain counties are improved by reason of Mr. Edwards' remaining out of the race. They believe that a winning fight, and an unbounded confidence in his ability to faithfully and brilliantly represent the district in Congress.

WHO IS TO BE BOSS?

Clifford Walker has announced his candidacy for Governor in opposition to Governor Hardwick, and has begun his campaign by correspondence and through the press.

Among the foremost planks in his platform, he alleges his position in the campaign, and charges by innuendo that Governor Hardwick is controlled by one Clay Robson.

Few people in Georgia have ever heard of Clay Robson, and therefore are not informed as to whether his bossism portends good or evil for the state. It is commonly recognized that any sort of special influence is evil, and it is upon this assumption, no doubt, that Mr. Walker has made his onslaught against Governor Hardwick. So far as our personal information extends, Robson may be either good, bad or indifferent. We have heard of him for many years, and he is pictured generally as a monster evil by those who do not approve him. He may have friends who esteem him as a man far different to that. Both his enemies and his friends may be disqualifying him from prejudice to judge him with fairness.

We have deliberately reached the conclusion that a good boss is far better than no boss at all for the man who needs one. As to Governor Hardwick, it has been our opinion in the past that he has often needed a good boss, but we positively have not suspected that he recognized one so long. There have been times when we believed he would have done well to have accepted counsel and even dictation from wiser and better men. Instead, he has rather seemed to reject the aid of independent counsel when those who seemed to have a call upon him were about to draw the lines. We remember him as reveling in the grace of President Wilson when he was first a candidate for the United States senate, and it is still easy to remember that he refused to submit to control or even to work in harmony with the President shortly after his election as a Wilson satellite. If we come on down to the more recent election when he was accepting for the time being the support of Tom Watson, with apparent intention to do his full bidding, we are reminded how quickly he broke the fetters which he seemed pleased to assume. It is a matter of common knowledge that he was soon out of harmony with Watson and was running an independent course because of his refusal to stand tied. So far as we are aware, the matters of disagreement between him and his benefactor were of little or no consequence. He may have done well not to have torn loose from Watson, or he may have done better to have broken with him as he did. The point is the same, in any event; he doesn't seem to be of the kind that accepts bossism permanently.

And talking about bosses, brings us to wonder how Mr. Walker happens to find himself wearing the robe of a candidate at this moment. Can it be that he has agreed to do the things which Hardwick refused to do at the bidding of Watson? Can it be that Mr. Walker has decided that Watson is a better boss for him than Robson is for Hardwick?

We don't take great stock in this talk of bossism. The fact that some right-thinking man may give counsel which is heeded by those in office, does not necessarily indicate that the man who accepts counsel is corruptly controlled. We are listening to learn whether Robson has controlled Hardwick, and then we shall be able to decide whether that control has been for good or for evil.

A VALUED COURTESY.

In connection with the news story last week pertaining to the sensational killing of two women in this county by Elliott Padrick, the husband of the one and the son-in-law of the other of the women, the Times is sure its readers were interested in the picture of the young man which appeared in these columns. It was due at that time that credit should have been given for the kindness of the Savannah Press, through whose thoughtfulness the picture was presented to our readers. It is a gratification to a newspaper man to have a stronger friend upon whom he may rely at times for favors such as our friend Suttle of the Savannah Press has shown himself to be in many instances.

Incidentally, it is meet that we

CANTALOUPE MARKET IS REPORTED OVERSTOCKED

That the markets throughout the country are overstocked with cantaloupes, is the common report received by shippers. Market quotations from some of the cities are said to place the price at 60 cents per crate, which is less than the cost of freight charges. As a result, shipments have been practically suspended from this section, and the local markets are being supplied at very nominal prices. Twenty-five cents per dozen for good fruit is the prevailing price, and the demand is limited at that. In some sections of the county large fields of cantaloupes planted for shipment are abandoned, and the farmers are giving away the fruit to their friends who call for it.

CARD OF THANKS.

We the children of Mrs. Elizabeth Shannon wish to express through this paper our heartfelt thanks to the good people of this community and elsewhere for their help and kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear mother. We assure each and every one that their kindness shall never be forgotten. May God bless you all in every prayer. HER CHILDREN.

"The Sheik"

At The

Amusu Theatre
Monday and Tuesday, July 4-5

"Who are you?" she gasped. "I am the Sheik Ahmed Ben Hassas."

"I am the Sheik Ahmed Ben Hassas." It was inevitable; there was no help to be expected, no mercy to be hoped for. With a start of recollection she realized fully whose arm was around her, and whose breast her head was resting on. He heart beat with sudden violence. What was the matter with her? Why did she not shrink from the pressure of his arm? What had happened to her? Quite suddenly she knew that she loved him for a long time, even when she thought she hated him and when she had fled from him. Love had come to her at last who had scorned it so fiercely. The men who had loved her had not the power to touch her, she had given love to no one, she had thought she could not love.

Don't miss seeing the Paramount picture, "THE SHEIK," at the AMUSU THEATRE, Monday and Tuesday, July 3rd and 4th. Leading roles are played by Agnes Ayers, beautiful heroine of "Forbidden Fruit," and the "Affairs of Anatol." and Rudolph Valentino, who scored so heavily in "Foxy" and "The Sheik." "The Sheik" is a motion picture of rare, colorful vivid, enthralling, thrilling, romantic, produced at tremendous expense for your delight. It is a picture of tremendous heart appeal, faithfully adapted from the book, the best seller of the day. "THE SHEIK" reaches the top notch of motion picture entertainment. To miss it is to miss one of the greatest pictures of all time.

WELL-FRUITED COTTON.

Geo. M. Miller, of the Hagan district, displayed at the Timed trial, a cotton stalk with twenty-four bolls, evidencing the prospect for a good yield at his farm. He planted early and states that he plowed his cotton every week. It is planted in three-foot rows and six inches in the drill.

Besides growing cotton, Mr. Miller is a contributor to the Statesboro Cyclopedia, and has been from the very first. To begin with he bought a separator. He states that he has sold more than $140 worth of cream to date, and is preparing to buy better cows and sell more cream during the coming fall.

LAUNCH BIG PLANS TO ENFORCE LAWS

LEAGUE FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT WILL FORM ORGANIZATION IN EVERY COUNTY.

Atlanta, July 4.—Plans for forming permanent organizations in every town, county and militia district in Georgia were outlined and considerable money was subscribed to put the program into operation at the convention here of the Georgia League for Law Enforcement. The session of the convention which brought together a representative body of Georgia's leading citizens, proved very successful. A number of ministers, lawyers, judges and other prominent men made speeches.

In a severe arraignment of lynch law, Dr. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church declared that lynch law constituted a crime against the state and that there was as much difference between the two as heaven and hell. He said that the punishment of crime by lawful authorities was ordained of God and confirmed by scripture, but that punishment by crime on the part of an individual was specifically condemned by God.

Dr. Wilmer demanded disfranchisement for "any man who would take part in a lynching party."

"He is an anarchist and ought not to be allowed to take part in the government," Dr. Wilmer said.

"Respect for law must be instilled into the consciences of the people," he said. "You can't have a prosperous and law-abiding country by passing a lot of laws, building jails and then 'let the police on the offenders. You have to go deeper than that."

Dr. Wilmer cited instances in the life of Christ to show that God approved the punishment of crime by civil authorities and quoted scripture to support the declaration: "Vengeance is mine, said the Lord," in the case of individuals retaliating for injuries done them.

Jerome Jones, editor of the Journal of Labor, delivered an address citing the action by labor organizations in encouraging jail sentences instead of light fines.

"Labor is most heartily behind the work you are doing to enforce the law," Mr. Jones said, "because lawlessness most endangers the homes of the industrial classes and the lives of workers and their children, who have to walk the streets at early and late hours of the day."

Mr. Jones said the remedy for lawlessness lay in the church, the home and the school, where the next generation should be taught respect for authority.

Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton county, sounded the theme of the conference when he arraigned those who seek election to prison terms as "weak-kneed hypocrites," and urged the strict enforcement of law to stop the wave of lawlessness he said had struck the state.

Speaking on "Sentimentality vs. Justice," Judge Humphries said the wheels of justice were being clogged by "maudlin sentimentalists who do all they can to secure clemency and even immunity for their friends, regardless of guilt or innocence of the culprit."

"Let every man know and know definitely," the judge said, "that there is a sure penalty for each and every violation of the law, and there will be a complete reversal of action. That, and that alone, will make for the real citizenship and cure the present ill."

Judge Nash R. Broyles spoke on "Courts," declaring it was the duty of the courts to wipe out lawlessness, chiefly by putting teeth into chain gang sentences and bearing down on apparently law-abiding citizens who persist in carrying pistols. "The courts must create a sentiment in the minds of the people to crush out this bootlegging that is giving so much trouble," Judge Broyles said.

Let this accomplishment speak for the importance of standing by our newspapers. They are one of our greatest assets in construction work. I want to add further, that while our doors for membership will always be open, we can't take the corner for new members who choose to drop in at any time they like, as this will mix us up. We want to get you correctly numbered and placed before August 1st. I will be glad to furnish any applicant with a contract and note, if he or she will write me.

J. O. MANOR.

Atlanta, July 3.—Governor Hardwick decided today he will open his campaign the week between the 15th and the 22nd of this month, the opening speech to be made in the city of Macon, probably in the city auditorium on a set date to be arranged in the next few days. Just how many speeches he is to deliver has not yet been decided upon, but it is his purpose to conduct any part of his political campaign in his papers transmitted to the legislature, as some people thought he would do. His messages during the session of the assembly are to be held strictly to state matters regardless of politics and will deal with items he has already in one way or another gone into or made a study of from his office.

The negroes were jointly convicted of a criminal assault upon a white woman, and a proper legal showing was made to the governor of alleged newly discovered evidence upon which counsel for the negroes asked a claim of doubt that the two convicted negroes were the proper ones. Upon that showing a petition for respite for thirty days was granted in order that there be time to examine into the value of the alleged new evidence. The order of respite was telegraphed to Sheriff L. W. Rogers of Wayne county Thursday and he replied, by wire, as follows: "Your order received with much interest. The following day the negroes were being removed to another county, Chatham, it is understood, when a mob took the negroes away from the sheriff without, it is stated, any trouble whatever and lynched them. The incident is being very severely condemned by the governor's office, and the offer of reward directed today was without any formality of request by county or court officials, but a direct exercise of executive authority."

It is known a number of strongly controversial letters have been received on the subject, and it is reported that a request has been made for the removal of the sheriff, but no law provides that authority.

NOTICE, DEMOCRATS. A meeting of the Democratic executive committee of Bulloch county is hereby called to be held in the court house at Statesboro, Saturday, July 8, at 3 p. m. The object of said meeting is to perfect plans for the primary in September, and to transact such other matters as may properly come before the committee.

"He is an anarchist and ought not to be allowed to take part in the government," Dr. Wilmer said.

"Respect for law must be instilled into the consciences of the people," he said. "You can't have a prosperous and law-abiding country by passing a lot of laws, building jails and then 'let the police on the offenders. You have to go deeper than that."

Dr. Wilmer cited instances in the life of Christ to show that God approved the punishment of crime by civil authorities and quoted scripture to support the declaration: "Vengeance is mine, said the Lord," in the case of individuals retaliating for injuries done them.

Jerome Jones, editor of the Journal of Labor, delivered an address citing the action by labor organizations in encouraging jail sentences instead of light fines.

"Labor is most heartily behind the work you are doing to enforce the law," Mr. Jones said, "because lawlessness most endangers the homes of the industrial classes and the lives of workers and their children, who have to walk the streets at early and late hours of the day."

Mr. Jones said the remedy for lawlessness lay in the church, the home and the school, where the next generation should be taught respect for authority.

Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton county, sounded the theme of the conference when he arraigned those who seek election to prison terms as "weak-kneed hypocrites," and urged the strict enforcement of law to stop the wave of lawlessness he said had struck the state.

Speaking on "Sentimentality vs. Justice," Judge Humphries said the wheels of justice were being clogged by "maudlin sentimentalists who do all they can to secure clemency and even immunity for their friends, regardless of guilt or innocence of the culprit."

"Let every man know and know definitely," the judge said, "that there is a sure penalty for each and every violation of the law, and there will be a complete reversal of action. That, and that alone, will make for the real citizenship and cure the present ill."

Judge Nash R. Broyles spoke on "Courts," declaring it was the duty of the courts to wipe out lawlessness, chiefly by putting teeth into chain gang sentences and bearing down on apparently law-abiding citizens who persist in carrying pistols. "The courts must create a sentiment in the minds of the people to crush out this bootlegging that is giving so much trouble," Judge Broyles said.

Let this accomplishment speak for the importance of standing by our newspapers. They are one of our greatest assets in construction work. I want to add further, that while our doors for membership will always be open, we can't take the corner for new members who choose to drop in at any time they like, as this will mix us up. We want to get you correctly numbered and placed before August 1st. I will be glad to furnish any applicant with a contract and note, if he or she will write me.

J. O. MANOR.

Atlanta, July 3.—Governor Hardwick decided today he will open his campaign the week between the 15th and the 22nd of this month, the opening speech to be made in the city of Macon, probably in the city auditorium on a set date to be arranged in the next few days. Just how many speeches he is to deliver has not yet been decided upon, but it is his purpose to conduct any part of his political campaign in his papers transmitted to the legislature, as some people thought he would do. His messages during the session of the assembly are to be held strictly to state matters regardless of politics and will deal with items he has already in one way or another gone into or made a study of from his office.

The negroes were jointly convicted of a criminal assault upon a white woman, and a proper legal showing was made to the governor of alleged newly discovered evidence upon which counsel for the negroes asked a claim of doubt that the two convicted negroes were the proper ones. Upon that showing a petition for respite for thirty days was granted in order that there be time to examine into the value of the alleged new evidence. The order of respite was telegraphed to Sheriff L. W. Rogers of Wayne county Thursday and he replied, by wire, as follows: "Your order received with much interest. The following day the negroes were being removed to another county, Chatham, it is understood, when a mob took the negroes away from the sheriff without, it is stated, any trouble whatever and lynched them. The incident is being very severely condemned by the governor's office, and the offer of reward directed today was without any formality of request by county or court officials, but a direct exercise of executive authority."

It is known a number of strongly controversial letters have been received on the subject, and it is reported that a request has been made for the removal of the sheriff, but no law provides that authority.

NOTICE, DEMOCRATS. A meeting of the Democratic executive committee of Bulloch county is hereby called to be held in the court house at Statesboro, Saturday, July 8, at 3 p. m. The object of said meeting is to perfect plans for the primary in September, and to transact such other matters as may properly come before the committee.
